FERTILIZER. FERTILIZER.
WHANN'S RAW BONE SUPER PHOSPHATE.

The unexampled success of this renowned manure during many years, has for its reputation which few other fertilizers can claim. Its sales are very extensive in all parts of the country, especially in those parts of the South where cotton and corn are largely grown. So decided and positive have been its results on these important staples, that in many sections it is preferred to all other manures.

is prompt and active in its effects. It starts the young plant vigorously, and by furnishing a steady supply of nutriment during the period of its growth, brings the crop to a healthy maturity in time to escape the ravages of early frosts.
We offer this well known fertilizer to our friends, confident that they will concur in the opinion of the leading planters of the South, that for Cotton and Corn it is unequaled.

ostentatiously displayed by a few heartless and inconsiderate individuals yesterday.

Several of the newspapers have the North Carolina Railroad.

There is still another committee of the Board of Commissioners to report illness of only five hours. He was in the eighty-second year of his age.

We noticed yesterday that Mr. A.
Creech, of the Marble Front, Fayette-are all received he will have one of the largest stocks in the city.

We call attention to the advertise-

Theo N. Ramsay organized a Lodge of Good Templars in Clinton, Sampson county, Friday night last. Dr.
C. T. Murphy was chosen Worshipful Chief Templar. He also organized a Lodge in Kenansville, Duplin county, on Tuesday night.

We are now strutting in a pair of boots just footed by Mr. J. P. Adams, of this city. We are free to say that we never wore a pair of boots that felt more easy to the foot, and as good material was used, we cheerfully commend Mr. A. to those wanting work in his line.

We have a curiosity in our midst.
It is an old white cow. Compared to her an ostrich is no where. She eats everything that comes in her way, and can easily digest anything from a bale of cotton to a keg of nails.
We should like to see her fasten on to that pile of concrete on the government lot.

Jeff Fisher, Esq., will, it is said, erect some time this Spring an elegant pressed brick edifice, Mansard roof, with marble trimmings, and finished inside with black walnut and ash, on the site occupied by his present residence. Smith, the House movist, has begun the work of removing the old dwelling.

The Adjutant-General issued on yesterday one hundred guns and ac-countments to Horner & Graves' school at Hillsboro. This official gratulates himself, and those of a military turn in the State, that only sixty stands of muzzle-loading arms are in the arsenal, and he is anxious to get clear of this balance.

It is rumored, with how much truth we know not, that Sheriff Lee is about to start a large public free school in this county with an endowment fund of $12,000 or $13,000.
Just here comes in a curious coincidence. The Sheriff owes the county school just about this amount.
Curious, very. If this be true, it is safe to assert that Mr. Lee will, during the campaign in the county, embellish upon his banner the attractive motto: "Education for the Masses."

RALEIGH AS A COTTON MARKET.
In its recent issue the State Agricultural Journal, under the above caption, has the following article in reference to the growing importance of our city as a cotton market. We are aware that in reproducing articles in this column of a statistical nature, or out of the usual line of local news and gossip, we fail to cater to the peculiar taste of a certain class of readers, who only seek to be amused and entertained for the moment, and care not for matter indicative of serious and profitable thought. But those of our readers at all given to looking beneath the surface of what is going on, what they read, will readily see the important bearing which the article contained in this article referred to have upon the most vital interests of our community. To the cotton trade may be ascribed the present prosperous and flourishing condition of our city, and upon its success continually depends our future prosperity in a commercial and industrial point of view. This subject epio-ne is elaborated to an almost indefinite length, but as the subject is extensive in itself, we focus further comment, fearful, too, of encroaching too much upon our local space.

The cotton receipts of Raleigh from the beginning of the current cotton year to this date (March 14), justify the expectation of an aggravated business, by the end of the year, approximating thirty thousand bales.

"We have taken pains to make inquiries concerning the causes of this recent rapid growth in business, and we think we have gotten at the truth of the matter.

"We interviewed one farmer who, for the past six years, has been shipping the greater portion of his cotton to New York. The last crop he divided, sending a portion of it to Raleigh and part to New York. He plants twenty-five miles from this city, near the line of a Railroad. He states that plenty bales of cotton sent to New York have just netted him one hundred and fifty dollars less than the same cotton would have netted in Raleigh, sold here the same day. It was put on the market in New York.

"His cotton brought in New York last week the same price, exactly, that it would have sold for in Raleigh.
So he lost the difference in freight and expenses on cotton to New York in two places, and that difference he estimated at one cent on the pound.

"We then interviewed two or three of our most prominent cotton-buyers and asked them how these things could be.

"We were informed that most of the cotton that is bought in Raleigh is purchased on orders from spinners.
The spinner can give nearly as much for cotton, provided it is as honestly graded and honestly weighed, in Raleigh as he can give in New York.
These points being guarded, the only advantage he could have in purchasing his raw material in New York would be on what difference (if any) in the weight paid on freights from Raleigh to factory, over freights from New York to his factory.

"All kinds of labor are, of course, more costly in New York than in this city, and the handling of cotton is quite as expensive. So that oftentimes the spinner finds that when he sends an order to New York for cotton, the commissions and other expenses, incident to his purchase, there, exceed the expense of a purchase in Raleigh, by an amount great enough to pay a considerable difference in freight.

"The energetic and reliable men who have but it up this purchase system, on order, have done good service for the city of Raleigh, as well as for the farmers. They are furnishing a good home market—the best market—the only sure salvation of the producer.

"We learned further, in the course of our inquiries, that several wholesale merchants in Raleigh claim the ability to sell groceries and staple dry goods dealers on as good terms as the same purchases could be made in large commercial centres."

PETERSBURG AND HER PEOP-LE!

A Trip Down the James—A Day Spent with Petersburg's Business Men—A Sumptuous Banquet—The Guanahani Guano Company and Officers and Their Hospitality.

Responding to an invitation, we found ourselves in the gallant Cockade City of Virginia, on Tuesday morning, in company with Capt. R.
T. Fulghum, of the State Agricultural Journal, Captain Thomas, of the firm of Messrs. Williamson, Upchurch & Thomas, of this city, Mr. Johnstone Jones, of the Charlotte Observer, Mr. F. E. Fritchard, Farmville and Petersburg, as well as a party "to settle a boat" or to em-barc on one as is usually found. We were taken in charge by a large delegation of the business men of Petersburg, headed by Maj. Tanner, President of the Guanahani Guano Company, aided by his Board of Directors, and what transpired up to 4 o'clock is best told in the following from the Daily News of Petersburg, the object of the excursion being to examine the operations of the Company at this City Point.

"The party numbered about forty, and were provided with an elegant coach by General Mahone, which took them smoothly to the Point in about twenty-five minutes. On the train all sorts of creature comforts were provided, and the guests did ample justice to the same. At the Point the company inspected the cargoes of Guanahani which is being unloaded from the schooner Bullard, and also that stored in their warehouse on the wharf. They then examined the cargo of the schooner Paul, Capt. Strange, who entertained the party with minute explanations as to the manner of getting the guano from the caves, and many other interesting facts concerning the business with the islands from which the guano is brought. After a pleasant half hour spent on board the Paul, Capt. Geaghan, the courteous commander of the steamer Zouave, of the Powhatan Steamship Company, took the entire party on board of his boat, and steamed out to the British iron steamship Bernard, Capt. Pon-net commanding, which is taking on a cargo of about ten thousand bags of flour for the Rio market, from the Richmond mills. Captain Ponnet is a fine specimen of the British sailor, and dispensed the most elegant hospitality in the liquid way to the party and went on to explain the details of the business.

"From this ship the party returned to the cars, and in a few minutes were again in Petersburg, when all the entertainment at the City Hall, given by the Guanahani Company to their invited guests. Many of our leading merchants, who were not on the excursion, were present at the dinner."—Petersburg Daily News.

THE DINNER.

The dinner was indeed an elegant entertainment, and every compliment was extended to the occasion, for which we return thanks for that portion paid us. Many toasts were drunk and responded to, the best of feeling prevailing throughout the three and a half hours of the dinner, and the gentlemen who had this portion of the entertainment in charge deserve especial compliment for the handsome manner in which everything was conducted.

THE GUANAHANI GUANO COMPANY.

It is evident the Guanahani Guano Company, which embraces the large portion of the leading business men of Petersburg, mean business, and we think they are compelled to make a grand success of their enterprise, which will be the means of adding greatly to the wealth of their city, and the stock of the Company being owned there. The farmers in that section who have used this fertilizer this season upon wheat are more than pleased with it, and we would overload with praise those who have it in charge deserve.

To Col. Wm. R. Griffith, the general Agent of the Company, we are indebted for especial courtesies shown.

PETERSBURG.

This city still proudly retains the name of the "gallant Cockade City" of Virginia—how well she has deserved it in past days her history will tell; her sons have ever been foremost to defend the honor of their country, and we would gladly shed the blood of their own home, and in defence of their own home, and after the close of the late war as man-fully accepted the situation and commenced the struggle to redeem from partial ashes the ruins of the city, and notwithstanding the untoward circumstances with which they have had to contend—the miserable misrule of negro domination and carpet-bag villainy, which have served to depreciate the value of property and drive away capital from their midst—they have struggled with the full force of their souls, and later find its full reward.
Petersburg is essentially a North State city, many of her leading business men are sons of the Old North State, and there has always existed between her citizens and the people of North Carolina that feeling of close friendship which no misfortune can destroy. In all the serious grievances which Petersburg has sustained within the last twelve months, she has had the hearty sympathy of the people of this State, who have learned to admire the integrity and energy of her citizens, and we trust at no distant day she may be enabled to throw off the shackles which have served to retard her progress for the last few years, and last she may become all that her natural advantages, coupled with the energy of good and true men, entitle her to.

Appropos of the above, we append the following, from a late number of the Weldon News:

"This gay old 'Cockade' still lives, notwithstanding the Governor vetoed the charter bill. The merchants here, ever alive to their true interests, are driving a flourishing business, and seem determined not to relax any efforts till their city is redeemed."

Good News.—We learn that the Township School Committee are determined to institute a graded free school in this city for the white children. With the aid of some prominent citizens, the School Committee propose opening a school, with three or more teachers, on the first Monday of next month. While they propose to be the legal controllers of said school, they have tendered their direction to certain prominent citizens, who will act as an Executive Committee. They will put their heads together and adopt a comprehensive system on Friday night next, at a meeting which has been called.
The Committee, we understand, will consist of Mayor Whitaker, Rev. A.
W. Mangum, Rev. Dr. J. H. Fritchard, J. H. Mills and K. P. Battle.
Election time is rapidly approaching and the terrapins are commencing to crawl. Better late than never.

It is contemplated, we learn, on the part of the Adjutant General, because of the advice and consent of the Governor, to revoke all the commissions heretofore issued in the militia, and to take a new start, in a militia movement, appointing new officers in toto; and with the new officials, to inaugurate the old-fashioned militia, general musters and all. It would look like "old times" to see a "general muster." It carries us to the days of our boyhood, when the assembling of the companies and the review of the regiments was an annual event, from which we dated local matters.

HOME INDUSTRY.—Messrs. Zeigler & Gruendler, the manufacturers of the "Raleigh Favorite" and other choice cigars, have won a deservedly high reputation, and their cigars give such universal satisfaction that hardly a cigar store in Raleigh can do without them. Dealers will do well to keep their stock well supplied. See advertisement elsewhere.

Gov. Hart, of Florida, the man who so persistently refused to surrender M. S. Littlefield to the authorities of this State, being dead, no Caldwell will, we learn, lose time in making a requisition for the rendition of Milton S. upon the new Governor. We hope that this requisition will meet with more success than the previous ones.

CITY PROPERTY FOR SALE.—On Wednesday next, the 25th inst., Thos. G. Jenkins, Esq., will sell to the highest bidder a number of valuable lots on Hargett and New streets, including three houses. See notice in another column.

[From the New York Herald.]

The electric wires have, perhaps, never flashed more startling tidings of physical convulsion than the announcement of yesterday evening, that a volcanic eruption was imminent in the Mountains of North Carolina. No geologist of the present century has ever ventured, we believe, to predict that the Appalachian chain, at our own doors, would ever be disturbed by those throes with which, in the so-called prehistoric epoch, they were supposed to have been convulsed. The intelligence as now conveyed to us reveals a terrestrial disturbance within a few miles of us, and in the middle of this Continent during the historic period. The historic account of American volcanoes are confined to the western coast of the Continent lying in that belt of fire, which stretches from the Patagonian Andes, through the isthmian mountains, far away to the northwestward, along the foggy rounded shores of British Columbia, to the beloved city of San Francisco, in the remote geologic period, the entire country drained by the Yellowstone and Columbia rivers was the scene of volcanic activity as fierce as that of any portion of the globe, and that it formed one vast crater made up of a thousand smaller volcanic vents and fissures, out of which the fluid rock was hurled in unlimited quantities.
We know that Mount Doane, Langford, Stevenson and more than hundred others were the nuclei of cyclopean fires that rivalled many of the shores of the Mediterranean.
Humboldt has recorded the almost inconceivable upheaval in Mexico in 1759, when on the night of September 29, between the setting and rising of the sun, the volcanic cone of Jorullo rose in fiery splendor sixteen hundred and eighty-three feet above the plain. On the middle of August, 1858, when the Pacific ocean came rushing into the port of Valparaiso, many of us remember how its shock, responsive to the deep upheavals of the Pacific coast, spread terror and dismay in the streets of San Francisco.

At that time the shaking of the earth extended far inland in California. The ground opened; jets of water were ejected from it; many buildings were demolished, and even since then the inhabitants of the land of gold have lived in constant uneasiness.

All these rockings of the continent have occurred on the Western slopes.
The convulsions which have been transmitted from the West Indian and Atlantic earthquakes to the Mississippi Valley have been scarcely perceptible, and made but little impression on the popular mind. The nearest approaches to volcanic action in the Mississippi Valley have been the occasional slight disturbances in the bayous and estuaries of the Lower Mississippi, which have been traced to the agency of the Mexican Gulf and its underlying volcanic furnace. There is no doubt it is a centre of plutonic force, and Figuer, the eminent French physicist, has gone so far as to suppose that its submarine furnace partly accounts for the superheated waters which emerge through the Florida Pass: is the great Atlantic current.

It is not impossible there may be a connection between this volcanic centre and the foundations of the Alleghany peaks, from one of which, in Western North Carolina, the present eruption is reported. The Alleghany form an apparently isolated barrier, or rather series of isolated uplands, extending from Alabama to Maine, with a mean altitude of two thousand feet. The two brothers, the Rogerses, so eminent as American geologists, who most fully explored them, first pointed out the extraordinary fact that they have no central axis, but consist of a series of convex and concave fissures giving them the appearance of so many col-lossal intrenchments. Mount Mitchell, the loftiest, and Mount Washington, the next in altitude, guard either convex or concave of the series, and slope of the whole range, running from the Genesee country of New York to the Mussel Shoals of the Tennessee river, are skirted by a deep underlying layer of limestone.
This latter fact is significant and may give a clue to the origin of the volcanic action of North Carolina. If, as Sir Charles Lyell, the highest geologist, authoritatively asserts, volcanoes are due to chemical action in the bowels of the earth, and not to an internal sea of fire, it is not inconceivable how such chemical action has culminated in the present fiery disturbance in North Carolina; but we anxiously wait for further intelligence for the data from which to draw a satisfactory conclusion.

Says the Roanoke News of the 18th inst: "In our last issue we mentioned the fact that the married man, Griffin Holman, who eloped with a young girl, some years ago from Nash county, was near Franklin, Virginia. On yesterday we met the step-father of the girl, W. F. Edwards, and the wife of the recent Holman with the girl in charge, coming up the Seaboard road. We took occasion to interview them, and learned that Holman's wife was a sister of Edwards' wife, who was formerly a widow Abernethy, which makes the girl Mary Abernethy, the niece, by marriage, of the miserable rascal who abducted her. Edwards gives it as his opinion that Holman got some magic compound, or love powder, from Isham Freeman, a supposed negro conjuror, who administered to the girl on candy and thus succeeded in inducing her to leave with him."

Senatorial Seats—Relics of the Past.
Senator W. W. Pinkney Whyte, of Maryland, who comes in in 1875, is booked for the seat of Senator Lewis, of Virginia, who goes out at the same time. Mr. Whyte would have taken the seat of Hon. W. T. Hamilton, but it had already been spoken for by some other Senator.

Senator Ferry, of Michigan, spoke for the seat of Senator Lewis, of Virginia, on March 6, 1873, a year ago. At that time it was thought very improbable that Mr. Summer would be re-elected. It has been erroneously stated that the chair in which Mr. Summer sat when assassinated by Mr. Brooks of South Carolina, had been taken by him to his house. This is not so; the chair was taken into the new Senate chamber, and has since been used by Mr. Summer, he having occupied it in all over twenty years. The chair and desks used by Calhoun, Webster, Clay, Benton and others are also in the present chamber, and are occupied by Senators who are themselves not aware of the fact. A private mark is on the back of the chairs, known only to Captain Bassett, the assistant doorkeeper. It is deemed best that it should be thus, for otherwise the relic-hunters would be apt to make sad havoc of them.

"THE RIGHT TO GO TO HELL."
Recently, at a revival meeting in the north part of the county, the exercises of the evening closed by a general invitation to all who wished to go to heaven to arise. The entire congregation, with a solitary exception in the shape of a boy, rose to their feet. The conductor then varied the invitation by asking all who wanted to go to hell to arise. The solitary exception arose to his feet. Of course the good people were scandalized, and the result was the arrest of the youth and his trial for disturbing the meeting. But, to the intense disgust of those liberal souls, the court held that if the boy wanted to go to hell he had a perfect right to do so, and that such did not necessarily disturb the meeting within the meaning of the law; and, dismissing the case, he was rejoicing.—Wright County (Ind.) Monitor.

Ella Baird, of Crawford county, Georgia, a short time ago attempted to take an apple from the pocket of a boy at school. The latter made an effort to transfer a pistol he carried from one pocket to another, when it was discharged, the contents entering the forehead of the girl, and causing death a few hours afterwards.

The head of a female, apparently twenty years old, with dark hair and regular handsome features, was found by some boys on the bank of the Saco river, near Biddeford, Me., Sunday. A cord was tied around the forehead, with a brick attached. The head had been chopped from the body close to the chin.

EXAMINE ANALYSES OF

Prof. F. A. GENTH, Philadelphia, Professor of Applied Chemistry, University of Pennsylvania.

Prof. J. WILSON, Baltimore, late Assistant to the great German Chemist, Baron J. von Liebig.

IMPORTED ONLY BY THE

GUANAHANI GUANO COMPANY,

PETERSBURG, VA.

DIRECTORS:

PRESIDENT—MAJ. N. M. TANNER, of Rowlett & Tanner.

VICE-PRESIDENT—ROBT. A. MARTIN, of Robert A. Martin & Co.

WM. R. GRIFFITH, of Baltimore, General Agent.

Petersburg, Va., December 17th, 1873.

To the Farmers and Guano Dealers of North Carolina and Virginia:

Gentlemen: To the many of you with whom I am personally acquainted, I would say, that of good results from GUANAHANI GUANO, I have not the shadow of a doubt. Its application will be seen in the soil. It being of animal origin, it is the most available form known to chemistry. It contains phosphoric acid, and decomposed animal matter, is preferable to the vegetable salts in Peruvian Guano. I ask of each of you the kindness of a thorough examination of the accompanying analyses by two of the great chemists of the country. I will respect, yours truly, WM. R. GRIFFITH, General Agent.

THE COMPANY GUARANTEES THAT EVERY CARGO WILL BE ANALYZED BEFORE IT IS OFFERED FOR SALE.

LETTER FROM PROF. WM. C. KERR, STATE GEOLOGIST OF NORTH CAROLINA:

Raleigh, N. C., January 7th, 1874.

Wm. R. Griffith, Esq., General Agent Guanahani Guano Company, Petersburg, Virginia.

Dear Sir: I have drawn analyses of the Guanahani Guano you have shown me, and find it to be a valuable fertilizer. I have no hesitation in endorsing any analysis from my laboratory. And I think the analysis justifies its state-ment that the substance examined by him is a VALUABLE MANURE.

From his report, and that of Prof. Wilson, it is evidently a TRUE GUANO, both in kind and composition, and its addition to crops is expected to be the same in kind and in degree proportioned to its relative per centage of the valuable ingredients—Phosphoric Acid, Ammonia and Potash, that of the first being unusually high.

Yours truly, WM. C. KERR, State Geologist.

ANALYSES.
